Wise Child, Happy Father

Mark Twain once said, "When I was fourteen years old, my father was so ignorant I hated to have the old man around. But when I was twenty one years old, I was astonished to see how much my father had learned in only seven years."

Sometimes young people come to realize with deep regret that if they had followed the counsel of their parents they could have avoided much heartache, both for themselves and their family. Our Heavenly Father understands this, that's why Paul was inspired to write…

> Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. Honor your father and mother, which is the first commandment with promise: that it may be well with you and you may live long on the earth.

And from Solomon…

> Listen, my sons, to a father's instructions; pay attention and gain understanding
>
> Proverbs 4:1

All that being said, we as parents need to realize that the wisdom of our children or the lack thereof most often comes from us.

Train a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not turn from it.
Proverbs 22:6

We should also understand that an individual proverb shouldn't be read as either an invariable rule or a binding promise from God. What the Spirit of God is saying here are the general rules of life. If we do what's right we can expect a good result. I'm sure most of us could look around and see an exception to the rules of life. Proverbs is simply a study of life the way it normally works.

Let's all remember that all family members should be allies, not adversaries. Let us love one another as God has loved us. Let us learn from our Heavenly Father and share it with our children.
Here is a short poem written by "Kritzman".

Above all else that you can do

To make your father proud of you,

Be diligent, be kind, be wise —

Such traits are priceless in his eyes.

The fatherof a righteous man has great joy; he who has a wise son delights in him. Proverbs 23:24
